PHI 516
Contemporary Philosophy: Phenomenological Directions
Professor Bob Sandmeyer

Husserl's "Epilogue" to Ideas I

Structure of the "Epilogue"¹

Preliminary Remarks  "The vocation of phenomenology"
Section 1       "Phenomenology – a material eidetic science"
Section 2       "Eidetics – the science of pure possibilities"
Section 3       "The transcendental phenomenological reduction and the possibility of philosophy"
Section 4       "Egological reduction"
Section 5       "Transcendental idealism and the intersubjective reduction"
Section 6       "Radicalism of transcendental phenomenology & the reform of psychology"
Section 7       "Philosophical archaeology"

Bibliographic Information

see also:

Translations:

see also:

¹ Except for the "preliminary remarks," these are my own section title headings. Neither Husserl nor an editor of this work authored this.